

Login and Registration Screens Mockup Example

Note: This sample is incomplete for the login and registration workflow. At least several more screens would be expected for the results of the login or registration, etc.

|--|--|
|  The mockup shows a web browser window with the title 'Service Co User Login'. It features a large placeholder for a company logo, a yellow callout box stating 'Company logo goes here', a login form with 'User Name' and 'Password' labels and 'TextInput' fields, a 'Login' button, a registration section with a 'Text here describing account registration...' box and a 'Register Account' button, and a 'Privacy Policies' link at the bottom. | |
| Login screen 1: User is presented the login screen as the default front page for the website. The user may use an existing login or register for a new account. The user may also view the privacy policies for the website. Note the prominent company logo and addition of registration help text. | |

Registration screen 1: This is the registration screen used to create new accounts. A minimum amount of information is required to create an account which can be expanded later. The user may submit or cancel the registration request. The submit button will process the self-registration and take the user to a new account welcome page. The cancel button will take the user back to the login screen. The user may also view the website privacy policies from this page.
